New Approach To Education

The eyes of the academic world are now on Martin. One educator who came to Pulaski to investigate had been told at an educational conference, "There is only one college in the Southeast that is doing anything really innovative or creative and that is Martin College at Pulaski, Tennessee. Martin is looking for something better than the traditional educational system.

Class meetings are held on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. Wednesday is a free day, though not a holiday, being set aside for library work, writing papers, conferences, special field studies, and other uses.

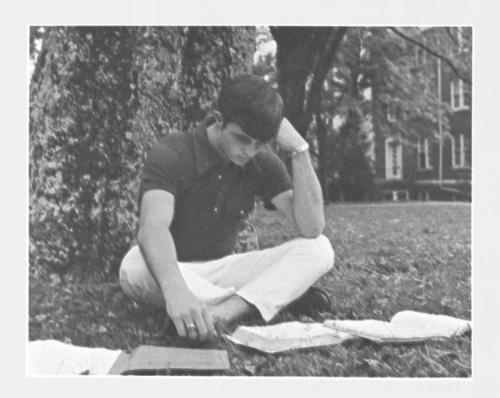

No failing grades are received at Martin. The grades of A, B, and C are retained. If the student does not merit the minimum grade of C, he receives an X which serves as a holding symbol and may be replaced, within a limited period of time, with a C when the student's work meets the standard.

The program is designed to give individuals.

The program is designed to give individual-ized attention to students who are deficient in some area. The learning experience begins where the student is, rather than where he should be. Students are not forced to conform to the same procedures.

Each classroom is a learning resource center, with books, films, and tapes available to students at any time.

Prior to joining Middle Tennessee State University, he was supervisor of physical education for the Knoxville City Schools and a teacher and coach at Sequatchie County High School.

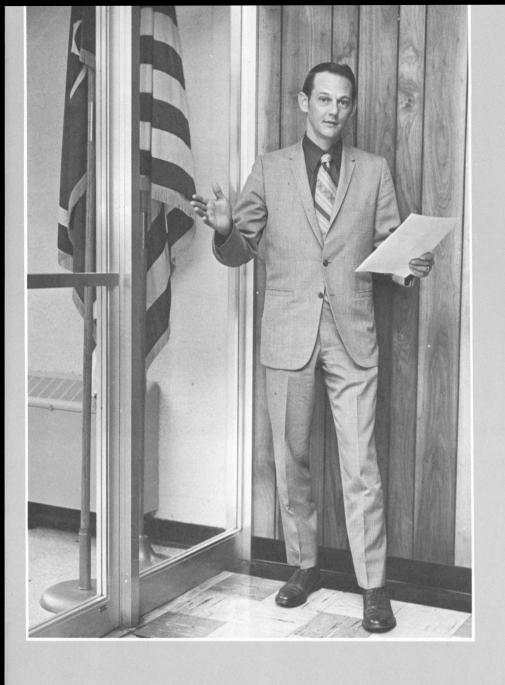

Dr. Wagner received his Bachelor of Science degree at Tennessee Technological University in 1958, his Master of Arts degree from the University of Tennessee in 1962 and his Doctorate of Education from George Peabody College in Nashville in 1967.

Dr. Wagner's impressive record at Middle Tennessee State University is further enhanced by his civic offices. In 1969, he was elected "Outstanding Young Man of the Year" by the Murfreesboro Jaycees. He is an active member of the Kiwanis Club, and serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the local United Givers Fund, Middle Tennessee State University Wesley Foundation, Rutherford County Association for Retarded Children, Tennessee Association for Retarded Children, and Murfreesboro Human Relations Commission.
